Ag Exhibit Will Be Big Attraction At County Fair

At the heart of the South Florida Fair, to be held on the Fairgrounds, Southern Boulevard, West Palm Beach, January 24 through February 1, will be the Agricultural Exhibit, prepared and executed by M. U. Mounts, Palm Beach County Agricultural Agent and his committee.

This year the center of the show is to be a giant exhibit of Florida's new and booming sugar industry. Here a display will be arranged with the cooperation of the United States Sugar Corp. and the other sugar companies from Pahokee and the Glades.

Surrounding this central exhibit will be a fine show of poultry, vegetables and the work of the 4-H Clubs and the FFA.

It has also been announced by Mr. Mount that there will be an outstanding exhibit of pure bred cattle. This will include a herd of Jerseys from the Pioneer Jersey Farm, Olde Lyme, Conn., also a herd of pure Brahman cattle, raised in Florida and other cattle including Angus, Charolais, Hereford and Holstein.

Also of interest to the country minded and of special interest to the children, will be the Animal Nursery, a new feature of the Fair this year. Here in a tent especially designed as a traditional Big Red Barn, stalls will be arranged for each animal indigenous to the area and her young. The stalls will be accompanied by a nursery rhyme describing the animal and her habits and will include horse and colt, duck and duckling, pig and piglet, skunk and skunklet.

The Animal Nursery will be centered around a Chicken Midway, also a first timer at the Fair. Here 200 baby chicks, circus trained, ride a miniature Chicken Midway. Three day old chicks will delight grown-ups and children by performing on the 12 different carnival rides prepared and designed by chick trainer, Leslie A. Renquist of Des Moines, Iowa.

Mental Health To Get Consideration Of State Officials

TALLAHASSEE — Secretary of State Tom Adams has called for the creation of a state division on mental retardation to provide needed coordination and strengthening of community programs.

Adams told the Citizens Committee of the Pinellas County Association for Retarded Children, "Our most immediate and pressing need in the field of mental retardation is for coordinated planning relative to: strengthening community programs on mental retardation."

"The most economical approach lies in community centers," Adams said, "for it costs approximately $2,200 a year to care for a patient in a Sunland Training Center and about $400 to $600 a year in a community day-care center."

Install Carillon Chapel By The Sea In W. Palm Beach

The First Baptist Church is happy to announce that a seventy-five bell carillon is now being installed in the Chapel-By-The-Lake. G. J. Schulermerich, the inventor and founder of Schulermerich Carillons, Inc., the world's largest manufacturer of electronic carillons, is supervising the installation.

The first public concert on this magnificent instrument will be held in the chapel next Sunday afternoon, January 26th at 2:30 p. m.

The guest carillonneur will be Anton Brees, famous carillonneur, now serving at the Bok Singing Tower in Lake Wales.

(The First Baptist Church, which has just broken ground for a new million dollar sanctuary, has wanted to include a fine carillon installation in the new church plans, but the heavy financial burden of building forced them to abandon the carillon. However, a good friend who is not a member of the church, in cooperation with Mr. Schulermerich, has arranged for the demonstration installation in the Chapel-By-The-Lake.

March Of Dimes Is Scheduled For Thursday, Jan. 30

Hundreds of volunteers—mothers, fathers and teenagers—will take to the streets January 30 in a county-wide Mothers March campaign to raise funds for the March of Dimes.

Mrs. Frances Duval, West Palm Beach, county Mothers March chairman, estimated that more than 1,000 workers will be involved in the house to house campaign.

The Mothers March is slated to be the major fund raising effort during the January March of Dimes.

Most of the volunteers, Mrs. Duval said, will be women—the great majority of them mothers who have a direct personal interest in the March of Dimes fight against crippling birth defects and arthritis.

"The mothers have confidence in the March of Dimes," Mrs. Duval said, "they know it gave them the Salk and Sabin vaccines which now protect their children against polio. They know that the March of Dimes research will find the answers to why 250,000 babies are born each year with birth defects and why millions of Americans suffer from birth defects and arthritis.

Funds raised during the March, Mrs. Duval said, will be used to support scientific research programs and also a network of medical centers where birth defect and arthritis patients receive superior medical care.

"We also need funds to provide continued assistance to polio patients who look to the March of Dimes for help," she added.

When a Mothers Marcher calls, Mrs. Duval appealed, "Please give generously."

Celery Price Has Farmers Smiling

Got any cabbage? The green variety we mean. This week in the Lake Region cabbage has been selling for as high as $2.50 per bushel. That's the highest cabbage has been this season.

Beans in the Glades recently sold for $6.00 per hamper and on the east coast for $8.00 per hamper.

They were a little higher here one day recently when the offerings were scarce.

Corn is rocking along at $3.00 a bushel. Growers seem happy with the price. The yield is low on account of cold weather this area experienced when the corn was developing.

It's celery for the money again this year. Growers who have much of the delectable weed are in for a money-making adventure. This week celery was selling around the $3.00 mark with some of it going as low as $2.85.

JAXONS TO VISIT

1964 Visitors To Top 1963 Crowd

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Development Commission has predicted the 1964 winter tourist season will top the 1963 total of 4,245,934 visitors entering the state.

The increase has been predicted as an aftermath of the record numbers of tourists flooding the state over the Christmas holidays. Chairman Wendell Jarrard said the commission's six-month advertising campaign pegged at Christmas paid off beyond expectations.

During the same period Delta Airlines reported a one-day passenger record of 2,108 persons flying into Miami from the north and predicted a 22 per cent increase in December traffic. Eastern Air Lines reported a 53 per cent increase in Florida traffic for Christmas week. Greyhound Bus Lines counted 5,000 passengers a day streaming into the state.

Major hotels and motels in Miami and Miami Beach were completely sold out over Christmas and they are looking for record bookings into 1964. A total of more than a quarter of a million holiday tourists visited the Miami area during the Holiday season.

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Pambard, Miami, were the weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Miller.

Clark Emery has returned to his home after spending seven weeks in Everglades Memorial hospital recuperating from a heart attack.

Hello, Central,
Give Me...

When telephones looked this way back in 1882, you can bet there were plenty of people around predicting that this new "phone" idea would never catch on.

But phones did catch on. Constantly improving . . . providing broader services. Today, here in Florida, Southern Bell has more than 1,650,000 telephones in operation. And still the planning and working goes on. In 1964 more than $79 million will be spent in the state to add new telephone facilities and improve existing ones. The number of customers served will top 1,090,000, and some 99,000 phones will be installed. By the end of the year Southern Bell's total investment in Florida will reach $762 million.

These are some of the plans for 1964. Like Florida itself, Southern Bell is pledged to progress. And we've come a long way since 1882.

Worries Will Be Over.

In spite of all the time, money and effort being devoted to control or eradicate them, plant pests continue to cost Americans some 7 Billion dollars a year in damage to crops and ornamentals.

Increasing use of agricultural chemicals in recent years has enabled our farmers to keep the pests in check. But the recent upsurge over damages of poisoning our environment through careless use of toxic chemicals has intensified the search for other means of accomplishing the task.

Now U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers are testing "living insecticides"—viruses that kill destructive pests yet are harmless to man, animals, plants, pollinating insects and also to the natural enemies of the target pest.

Two of these viruses have been mass produced and used to spray test crops. They destroy the cabbage looper and the corn earworm. These are among the most widespread and destructive crop pests in the U. S., annually damaging or destroying crops worth several hundred million dollars.

After years of investigation, the virus pesticide breakthrough came when researchers developed a method of artificially rearing the insects in whose bodies the destructive viruses are produced.

The "virus polyhedra," or clusters in the nucleus of infected cells, multiply at a fantastic rate. It is estimated one artificially reared cabbage looper can produce nearly 2½ Billion polyhedra.

You probably could hold on the nail of your little finger enough powdered cabbage looper virus to treat 5 acres.

USDA expects these pest-killing viruses eventually can be produced at prices farmers can afford. Several firms are interested, and uniform standards are being developed for commercial production.

Incidentally, the corn earworm likes a varied diet. When it feeds on cotton it is known as the cotton boll weevil. It's close relation, the tobacco budworm, also may be subject to destruction by the virus that kills the earworm.

Increasing use of fertilizers is one reason American farmers have been boosting crop production.

Confirming expectations that fertilizer use will continue to gain is recently entry into the fertilizer field by some of the big petroleum companies. Their acquisitions of fertilizer facilities is, as a Washington newspaper termed it, "amazing."

Recent developments have included Socony Mobil Oil taking over V. C. Chemical Corporation; Cities Service acquiring Tennessee Corporation and Florida phosphate lands; Continental taking on American Agricultural Chemical; Kerr-Magee with Baugh Chemical.

Occidental Petroleum has Best Fertilizer and was reported planning to buy International Ore and Fertilizer, and Gulf Oil was reported planning to take over Spencer Chemical.

The oil companies may be looking ahead to the time when foreign demand for fertilizer is going to climb sharply. They might even expect to find a big demand in the Communist countries this year.

However, I'm opposed to sales of fertilizer to Russia, or any other countries of the Communist Bloc until they can prove to our satisfaction they no longer pose a threat to world peace. Sales to them of anything but consumable commodities, like grains and food, tend to strengthen their economies and preserve their industrial capacity to produce arms.

Leaders in the petroleum industry are pretty, farsighted people. They have to be to keep on top of development that have been international in scope for some years. Their new interest on fertilizers view of the world's hunger problem as outlined in a recent report from USDA.

Some 50 countries—the "have not" nations as far as food is concerned—are found in Asia, Africa and Latin America. The report notes that in Asia, just to maintain present meager diets, per acre yields must be boosted 50 per cent by 1980 just to keep even with population growth.

An increase of that size amounts to more than 240 million tons of grain. It would require 24 million tons of fertilizer a year to get such yields.

Right now, total world production of fertilizer, according to U. S. News & World Report, is only a little more than 28½ million tons. You can imagine what world fertilizer tonnage would have to be to fill the needs of All underfed people.

Some observers of the Washington scene are expecting announcement of a "See America" campaign this year as a new Administration move to help stem the outflow of dollars and relieve some of our balance-of-payments problems.

It is suggested that the trip abroad and the cruise-ship holiday, which have become so popular in recent years, may be losing a bit of their "status" glamor. If that is true, official backing for a campaign to promote travel in America could make the idea a success because it would be "fashionable" to do so.

Florida's tourism, which is continuing to show big gains every year, should increase even more if a "See America" campaign really takes hold. And our plans for State development of more outdoor recreation facilities, already underway, may begin to pay dividends even sooner than expected.

In the meantime I note that visits to the U. S. national forests soared to 125 million in the past year, for a 12-million gain over 1962.

Our own Everglades National Park attracted nearly 670,000 visitors in 1963 for a yearly gain of 7 per cent. A 32 per cent gain was registered in December alone.

It was reported more than 65,000 persons camped in or used one of the two campgrounds in the park, a 45 per cent increase over the previous year. At one location nearly 50 new campsites were opened during the holidays to meet the increase of camping visitors.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported recently the national forests now have 67,739 picnic and camping units for families—space enough for 354,954 visitors at one time.

In additional Federal technical assistance has been given in the past 18 months to some 2,500 operators on about 750,000 acres in various parts of the nation who intend to make recreation their prime source of income. Some of the acreage had been used for crops currently in surplus.

It is worth noting that some 75,000 volunteer committee members are working throughout the nation on Rural Areas Development at state, county or area levels. According to the Federal Extension Service's latest annual report, 68,621 are working on county committees; 5,220 on multi-county or area groups and 1,852 on the state level.

USDA reports it made loans for the first time in 1963 to aid farmers, associations of farmers and others in rural areas to produce outdoor recreation enterprises. Some 3½ million dollars was advanced to 130 farm operators and 26 rural associations in 41 states to expand opportunities in their areas for fishing, camping, and reaction.

It doesn't always require a big investment to carry out plans to increase rural income and job opportunities.

A cooperative hunting project that cost only $107.50 to operate is estimated to have returned some $300,000 of income last year to the people of Custer County in Nebraska. According to an RAD report, it brought 3,000 hunters from 28 states for the three-month pheasant hunting season. Each hunter spent about $100 during his stay.

Town and farm people, working together to promote their county, also discovered they and the hunters learned a lot about each other's viewpoints. It was sort of a three-month Farm-City Week.

The "one-to-one," or fat balanced, eggs about which I reported a few weeks ago, didn't seem to go over too well in their first marketing test. Nevertheless, the company controlling the new type of hen fruit plans to introduce them in Southern California and later in a major Southwest area.

In the original Utah test area a major food chain has dropped the new eggs. A spokesman for the franchised producers noted the introductory price of 69 cents a dozen may have been out of line when Grade AA were selling at 49 to 54 cents.

In other news about foods I note that a big dairy distributor in Hartford, Connecticut, has started selling, for home delivery only, a 23-pound 10-quart "box" of milk.

The container is a corrugated paper box with milk vacuum packed in a polyethylene bag and a plastic spigot.

Designed for convenient storage in a home refrigerator, the package requires about 40 per cent less space than an equal amount of milk in glass jugs. Delivered price is $2.70.

Florida grower applies Phosdrin to control a late-season buildup of aphids and mites attacking an 82-acre field of tomatoes.

Pickers harvest the same field the following day. No Phosdrin residue remains to endanger either the pickers or the crop.

Why Palm Beach County vegetable growers should switch to Phosdrin® Insecticide now:

Apply Phosdrin up to 24 hours from harvest of most vegetables. Get fast control of insects without residue problems

POWERFUL Phosdrin Insecticide gives you fast knockdown and kill of aphids, mites, loopers, worms—almost all destructive pests attacking Florida vegetable crops.

Unlike most other insecticides, Phosdrin disappears after it does its job, leaves no residue. That's why it can be applied up to 24 hours from harvest on many crops—up to 72 hours on most others. (See table below for interval data for your crops.)

Solves late-season problems

If not controlled, a late-season insect buildup can quickly downgrade—or make completely unsalable—crops such as tomatoes, beans, potatoes, peppers, celery, watermelons, eggplants and most leafy vegetables.

If the infestation is controlled with an insecticide that leaves excess residue at harvest, processors will turn down the crop. Also, it will be subject to confiscation. Many growers are solving both insect and residue problems with Phosdrin Insecticide.

Hard-to-kill insects

Phosdrin solves other problems too. It controls insects such as cabbage loopers and aphids that are becoming harder to kill with older insecticides. Result: more and more growers are making Phosdrin a basic part of their full-season programs.

Good mixer

Phosdrin is compatible with most other insecticides and fungicides. And Phosdrin offers a wide margin of safety to the leaves and fruit of insecticide-sensitive crops such as cucumbers and lettuce.

Low cost

Don't be misled by the cost per pound or gallon of Phosdrin. A little Phosdrin goes a long way. For example, as little as ¼ to ½ of a pound per acre is all it takes to control the toughest insects attacking most vegetables. Dosage rates seldom exceed ¼ of a pound per acre. In short, if you compare costs on a per acre basis, you'll find Phosdrin is very economical.

Where to get Phosdrin

Phosdrin is available from your local insecticide dealer under many well-known brand names. It comes in liquid and dust formulations that are easy to apply with standard application equipment.

Bud Dickinson Is Officially In Race For Governor

WEST PALM BEACH—Another gubernatorial candidate has officially thrown his hat in the ring and has entered the race for the first primary election in the spring.

Fred O. (Bud) Dickinson, Jr., in a series of press conferences at precinct captains' caucuses throughout the state last weekend, announced his intentions to officially enter the race.

The press conferences were held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Tallahassee, Pensacola, Jacksonville, Orlando, Tampa, Miami, West Palm Beach and Fort Lauderdale.

The former head of the Florida Council of 100 and state senator from Palm Beach County was a candidate in the last gubernatorial campaign along with Jacksonville's Mayor Haydon Burns. The two have been "unofficially" campaigning for the governor's office ever since.

Opponents of Dickinson and Burns in the coming Democratic primary race will be Rep. Frederick Karl of Daytona Beach, Rep. John E. Matthews, Jr., of Jacksonville, Sen. Scott Kelly of Lakeland, and Mayor Robert King High of Miami.

Jerry Thomas Up For State Senator From P. B. County

State Representative Jerry Thomas announced his candidacy Wednesday evening for the State Senate from the 35th senatorial district. This district, which encompasses all of Palm Beach County, is presently represented by Senator Ralph Blank, Jr. who earlier announced he was not seeking another term.

In his announcement, Thomas said, "Palm Beach County should have a man in the Senate who is resourceful, experienced and decisive. I would serve in the Senate with the same common sense approach I used in the House of Representatives during my two regular and three special legislative sessions.

"The board economic diversification of our County requires a legislator who intimately understands its complexities. Only then, will the interest of all our people be represented. My educational and administrative background particularly lends itself to legislative endeavors," Thomas said.

During his first term in the Legislature, the members of the Senate and House voted Thomas the outstanding first term member of the House.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wroten were the guests of Trooper and Mrs. Ron Prekup and children, Sunday in Stuart.

Mrs. C. B. Stringari accompanied her mother, who has been her house guest, to her home in Ft. Lauderdale.

Mr. and Mrs. James Russel Zeigler, Belle Glade, announce the arrival of a son, James David, Born January 17.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Eugene Gibson, Indiantown, announce the birth of a daughter, Margaret Kay on January 19.

Mr. and Mrs. James Walter Cole Jr., Belle Glade, announce the birth of a son, James Walter III, January 19.

Ralph Blank Won't Run For Senator In Coming Election

Announcing he would not seek re-election in the Spring primaries, State Senator Ralph J. Blank, Jr., stated today he is retiring "reluctantly" after nine years in the Legislature, "out of fairness to my family and my law partners."

In addition to two and one half terms in the House and one in the Senate, Senator Blank pointed out that committee meetings, special sessions and a three-week impeachment hearing had kept him out of the county for more than six months out of the last 18 months in office.

"I want to express my thanks to the people of Palm Beach County for the privilege of serving in the Legislature and especially in the Senate," he said. "However the three special sessions on reapportionment, extension of the regular session by three weeks and the impeachment hearing, plus the day-in-day-out consultations with constituents and public officials, have left me too little time for my law practice, and it has become too much to ask my law partners to carry the load for me.

"Most people do not realize that a Senator's pay is only a net $76.00 per month, with no allowances, except when in Tallahassee during a session for secretaries, office expenses postage and telephone, which far exceed the "salary."

"I am not complaining about the past, but I am pointing out that I must get back to work for my family.

"I hope the people of Palm Beach County will understand, and feel that I have made some contribution during my service in the Legislature to justify their faith and support."

Nat Nason has returned to his home in West Palm Beach after visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Maxson.

Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Baxter were the recent guests of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wroten and children in Pahokee.

Mrs. H. J. Anderson, circle chairman, announced that the WSCS and the Methodist Men's Club will jointly sponsor a covered dish supper in the social hall of the church, Sunday, February 9, for members and their families.

Mrs. Hurt announced the next general meeting of the Society will be held, February 3, at the church with Mrs. R. J. Schroder speaking on "Methodist Heritage."

It was also announced that Dr. Allen W. Moore, of St. Petersburg, will conduct the revival at the Pahokee Methodist Church, beginning Sunday, January 26, and extending through February 2.

The February meeting of the circle will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. R. F. Hurt on Banyan Avenue.

County Fair Has Start On Jan. 24th

Fine arts and crafts will be represented with variety and imagination at the coming South Florida Fair, it has been announced by Edward Jacomo, committee chairman and art director of the Village of North Palm Beach Art Center. Mr. Jacomo and his committee are planning an entirely new approach to the display which will be an important part of the January 24 through February 1 Exposition.

Typical of the new approach is the unifying of the display building which is to be done by a subtle scheme of colors and the softening of the lighting. Adobe brick and light gravel will be used by Mr. Jacomo to give visitors to the arts and crafts booths an illusion of a walk through a garden, an effect which will be heightened by foliage.

The Village of North Palm Beach booth will have as its theme "Experience in Viewing", and aims to show the various artistic interpretations of subject matter. This display will show the sources and resources of art material, the uses of line, form, shape, color and texture. Visitors to this display will see graphic and dimensional art work done in unexpected materials, which will include construction materials, tissue paper, stain glass, wire as well as paint and stone. The exhibit will include paintings, weaving, collage, drawing, jewelry, sculpture, ceramics, and the many aspects of work done at the Art Center.

The many displays in this building plan to be educational and demonstrative this year, with visual and colorful displays of creative thought in action. Costumes from the Civic Opera productions will be on show, loaned by the opera and a Planetarium will be sponsored by the Junior Museum.
